

Santa vs. Krissy Kringle

"Why, Krissy Kringle?! Whyyyyyyy?!" —Just one of many outraged kids

Synopsis: When the evil Krissy Kringle is about to sell Christmas to a nefarious conglomerate that will end it forever, Santa wakes from a 40-year coma to rescue the holiday before the sale is final.

Summary: The chubby king of toys ate some poisoned Christmas cookies (yeah, seriously!) 40 years ago and has been in a coma ever since. The lovely Mrs. Claus has waited for him, and their kids are now grown, with kids of their own. And Santa's grandkids are on the "Krissymas" naughty list each year! Shocking, terrible irony!

With the help of Joy—the daughter of Santa's late best friend and head toymaker Spiffy—and her talented friends, along with Santa's four funny, specifically skilled grandkids, the big guy must save Christmas before Krissy Kringle sells it into annihilation.

Can Santa understand modern technology and muster the strength to get his head and body into shape to battle his ex-wife Krissy Kringle? Will his weird new friend Donner stop eating donuts and chasing octogenarian ladies long enough to be able to help him? Will Krissy's whimpy son Jack turn against her to help Santa?

To request this script, email me at joel@joeljamesdavis.com